FIGHTING OF GREAT VIOLENCE ON BOTH BANKS OF MEUSE

Germans hurl heavy force against sectors at Dead Man's Hill and near Fort Douaumont—70th Day of Verdun.

Invaders penetrate trenches near Hill 304, but are driven out in a counter attack.

Berlin Hears That Russian Transport Was Sunk Last Month in Mediterranean With Loss of 600.

PARIS, May 8.—After 70 days of battle the Germans are making a new attack before Verdun with another formidable army. Fighting almost equal in violence to that of the beginning of March is in progress on both banks of the Meuse.

Fighting of great violence continued last night on Verdun front and furious German attacks near Hill 304 were broken up by the French, the War Office announced today.

The losses of the Germans are described as extremely heavy.

The French attacked east of Hill 304 and drove the Germans from a communication trench which they penetrated yesterday. East of the Meuse there was a series of night engagements. The Germans were driven from a trench south of Haubumont, which they occupied yesterday, and 30 men, including two officers, were captured.

German Losses Heavy.

The offensive movement yesterday covered a front of two kilometers between Haubumont Wood and Fort Douaumont, costing the Germans important losses.

The principal effort of the Germans is being directed against Dead Man Hill. Following the Napoleonic policy of attempting to turn what cannot be carried by frontal attack, the Germans, with a whole army corps (about 40,000 men), made the assault by way of the ravine between Hill 304 and Dead Man Hill, seeking to crush in the French line along a front of one and one-half miles.

The ground there is favorable for attack and the French commander, aware of the weakness of the position, placed one of his best-trained army corps at that place. This corps disposed of the initial attack without ceding any important ground, but the battle is still raging and, according to the latest advices, the result will not be known till some time today.

East of the Meuse the Germans delivered four attacks on a front of 200 yards, each advance being made by a different Prussian regiment. The fighting there is as fierce as on the other side of the river and is inconclusive.

The northern slope of Hill 304 around which has raged the fiercest fighting in the Verdun region, has become a sort of neutral zone, according to an official statement. The Germans are installed at the foot of the hill, while the French maintain their grip on the summit. The trenches held by the French in the intervening territory were made untenable by the artillery and suffocating gas used by the Germans, but their occupation by the troops of the Crown Prince has been prevented by French artillery fire.

New Verdun Commander.

Gen. Robert George Nivelle has been appointed to direct the local operations at Verdun. He will succeed Gen. Petain, who has been promoted to commandant-in-chief of the group of central armies in the sector between Soissons and Verdun.

Gen. Nivelle, whose promotion to the command at Verdun put him in charge at such a critical time, is a man of 60. He comes from Toul in the Correze department. Gen. Nivelle is one of the discoveries of the war. At the outbreak of hostilities he was in command of the Fifth Regiment of Artillery. Gen. Joffre soon singled him out for a leading role. He was promoted to General of Brigade in October, 1914, and shortly after was placed in command of the 31st Infantry Division. On Dec. 21, 1914, he received his three stars and at the same time was appointed commander of the Third Army Corps.

Man von Sanders Brings Heavy Guns to Smyrna.

LONDON, May 8.—Field Marshal Leman von Sanders, with the German Fifth Army, has arrived in Smyrna, bringing with him a large number of Austrian heavy guns and other artillery, says the Daily Mail. Athens correspondent. All the craft in the harbor, the correspondent adds, have been searched to prevent their secret departure and not even neutrals are allowed to leave Smyrna.

Transport Carrying 600 Russians Said to Have Been Sunk.

BERLIN, May 8.—It is believed that the sinking of an allied transport in the Mediterranean late in April with the loss of nearly all the 600 Russian troops who were on board, is reported in advices from Corfu, says the Overseas News Agency.

ly be regarded as detracting from the value and scope of what is granted. Tone of U. S. Note Most Resented. It was the tone of President Wilson's note rather than its demands which struck deepest here, and there was a feeling that even if the demands were granted, what was regarded as the just and indignant resentment of the German people had to receive some consideration in the tone of Germany's answer.

The confidence generally expressed both in Government quarters and the circles which so strongly supported the Government for peace, "at Germany's answer had bridged the crisis, is strengthened by late dispatches.

Saturday morning papers had only the London dispatches. The noon papers brought the first independent reports, among others to the Frankfort Gazette, indicating strongly that Washington would not sever relations.

Private dispatches received by American correspondents also differed from the London press dispatches and indicated that the answer would be accepted. As usual, the embassy has had no information from Washington as to the reception of the note. Mr. Gerard asked several of the American correspondents to let him have any dispatches they receive.

It develops, also, that Washington did not even send to Mr. Gerard, direct or from London, a telegraphic copy of Secretary Lansing's note to England demanding the release of 38 Germans and Austrians (taken from the steamship China), of which he could have made excellent use in the conference at headquarters as showing the fairness, impartiality and sincerity of the President.

Disagreement as to Outcome. Whether the present bridging of the crisis means permanent peace between Germany and America few here are agreed. Belief and hope to that effect are expressed, but the doubt of the President's sincerity and motives is so deep here that it is not easily removed. At the same time, should Washington succeed in forcing England to release the 38 Germans and Austrians, it would react strongly.

(Britain has agreed to release these prisoners, but the news evidently has not reached Berlin.)

It is thoroughly appreciated and keenly realized that the sinking of any merchant ship, with Americans on board, without warning, probably would result immediately in Count von Bernstorff being given his passport.

This realization, in itself, after the concessions already made to America may be taken as a fairly good guarantee that the most rigorous measures will be taken to prevent such a calamity.

The discussion of the American situation in the Budget Committee of the Reichstag, where, behind closed doors, Chancellor justified the Government's course, lasted the greater part of the day. The majority of the Ministry was present. The Chancellor's explanation and statement, and his answers to the questions fired at him, especially by those opposed to his policy toward America, was regarded as being so congenial that unusual measures were taken to prevent the admission of unauthorized persons. Those admitted had to sign written obligations that they would keep the proceedings strictly confidential.

No Further Demands Expected. The impression made in parliamentary circles by the note was stated by a leading parliamentarian as follows:

"The concessions made by the Government to President Wilson's rather extraordinary demands are regarded as being very great and very far-reaching, dictated by a sense of greatest desire for the maintenance of peace and friendship with America and justified in the belief and hope that it means a permanent understanding; that America will make no further demands on us.

That your President will show his impartiality and his neutrality by being as forcefully insistent that other warring Powers return to the observance of international law and respect for American rights as he has been with us."

The German Government has by this answer been more expressed in confidence in the sincerity of the American Government. Should other demands come, or the German Government experience a disappointment, the Chancellor and the Government will find themselves in a difficult position."

One of the Ministers remarked to me: "I'm not one of those who hold that a break with America would be a catastrophe for Germany, but every sane reason and calm deliberation so dictated the maintenance of friendly relations with America that it were madness not to avert a break if it lay within our power."

"But there is a limit to all things, even to the conditions under which peace can be maintained between two nations. We went to these limits—yes, to the utmost limits—to show we desire and wish peace with America. We hope the American people will realize, understand and appreciate that."

In business, financial and other circles satisfaction was expressed that the Government, actuated by wisdom, did not let itself be too much influenced by public clamor, at the same time giving expression in the note to the feelings and sentiments of the German people as a whole on the controversy.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS OF BIBLE AS POWER TO UNITE PEOPLES

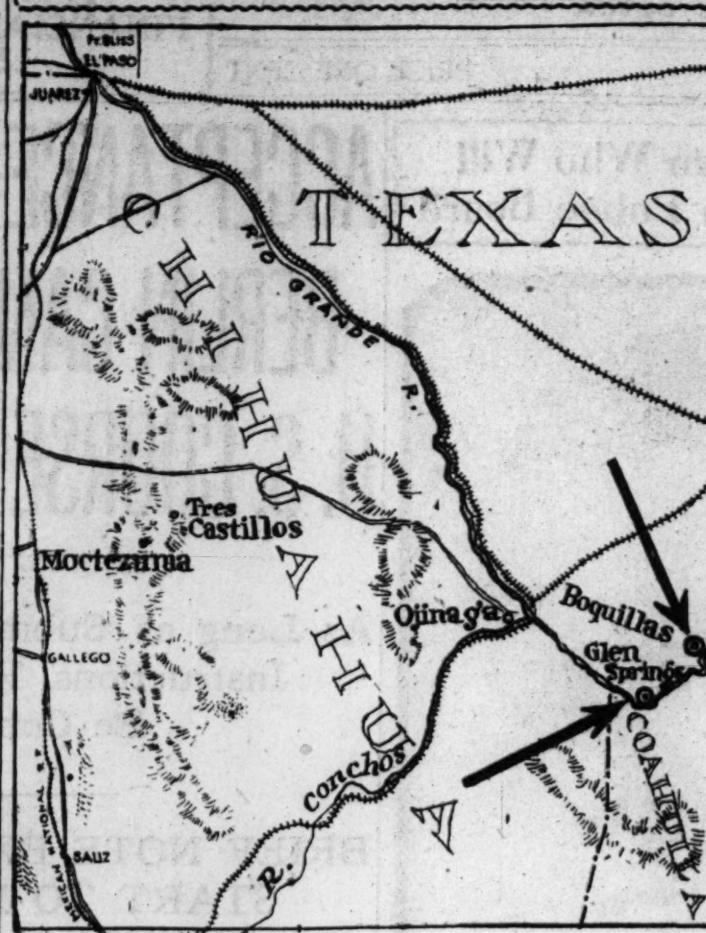

Says He Never Has Been Able to Find in It the Lines Which Divide Denominations.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—President Wilson, speaking at a celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the American Bible Society, in Memorial Continental Hall yesterday, dwelt on the usefulness of the Bible in drawing peoples together.

In proportion as men yield themselves to the kindly light of the Gospel, he said, "the lines are bound together in the bonds of mutual understanding and assured peace."

"The work of the Bible societies of the world is the one great, nondenominational missionary enterprise," he said at another point. "I suppose you can discover the lines that run between denominations in the Bible, although I must say I have never been able to discover them; they have been drawn out by differences of temperament and point of view, which I take leave to say are external to the Bible itself."

close the negotiations would be received in time for signing the protocol to-day.

Gens. Scott and Funston regarded the military operations in the Big Bend regions of Texas caused by the incursion of Mexican raiding parties, as only indirectly related to the conference begun for the purpose of obtaining greater co-operation between the American troops in Mexico and those of the de facto Government. It was realized, however, that military developments in the next day or two might cause further delay.

Gen. Obregon has been assured that the American representatives had said the last word and it was reported, was told that he could gain nothing more by further parleying.

Gen. Funston said today it would not be proper for him to disclose whether an expeditionary force was going into Coahuila in pursuit of the Mexican bandits who raided Glenn Springs and Boquillas.

According to reliable reports from Coahuila, a transport steamer with 600 Russians on board struck a mine and sank. Only a few were rescued. The bodies recovered, were buried by the British at Malta.

Brazilian Crew Says Ship Was Torpedoed.

RIO JANEIRO, May 8.—The Minister of Foreign Affairs has received a telegram from the Brazilian Minister in London announcing that the crew of the Brazilian steamship Rio Branco, sunk last week, presumably off the English coast, confirm previous announcements that the vessel was torpedoed by a German submarine.

Russian Troops Said to Have Been Transferred on Hospital Ships.

BERLIN, May 8.—"According to a dispatch from Athens," says the Overseas News Agency, "the British and French, by violation of the use of the Red Cross flag, have effected the transport of Siberian troops on hospital ships so as to avoid the danger of torpedoing by submarine."

The chief of the British naval mission, Capt. Leach, has been recalled, an Athens dispatch states."

Britain Denies Loss of Submarines E-31.

LONDON, May 8.—The British official communication issued last evening admits the loss of two naval aeroplanes, but denies the German claim of the sinking of submarine E-31, which is declared to have returned safely to its base. The communication says:

"With reference to the official German report published today, it is a fact two naval aeroplanes are missing."

"The claim that the British submarine E-31 was sunk by gun fire is untrue, the vessel having returned safely to her base."

Germans Took Entire System of Trenches on Slope of Hill 304.

French Bark Sunk, Crew of 18 Is Landed.

LONDON, May 8.—The French bark Marie Molines was sunk by a submarine on May 3. All the 18 members of her crew have been landed.

The Mexican dead were the Col. Antonio Angeles and Valentino Vasquez, Beltran Lopez and Jerrango.

A section of Company H, Signal Corps, will leave Fort Sam Houston today for Marathon to establish a telephone line from that point to Glenn Springs, the scene of the latest Mexican bandit raid. The distance is about 35 miles.

Capt. Herbert L. Evans is in command of the section, which will be rushed to Marathon by a special train over the Southern Pacific.

The belief prevails in military circles here that Col. Sibley's command will cross the Rio Grande and made a determined effort to capture the raiders.

120 Villas Bandits Have Been Killed by Pershing's Men.

FIELD HEADQUARTERS, May 8, by motor truck to Columbus, N. M., May 8.—The expedition under Gen. Pershing has succeeded to date for about 120 Villas bandits, 100 and below, 200 and 300 wounded. Meanwhile the Americans lost six killed, a ratio of 20 bandits slain for every American life lost.

The bandits have suffered nearly 20 casualties for every American hit by a bullet. While the expeditionary force have not lost one officer the Mexicans have had a half dozen of their leaders killed.

COMMITTEES TO CONFER TODAY ON SYMPATHY STRIKE

Representatives of Unions and Master Builders Will Go Over Troubles of Laborers.

MORE MEN ASKED TO QUIT

Union Men Asked to Go Out Wherever Non-Union Men Are Employed.

A committee of three was appointed this morning at a meeting of representatives of various unions affiliated with the Building Trades' Council to meet representatives of the Master Builders' Association during the afternoon in the Century Building, when the sympathy building strike declared Saturday will be discussed. The representatives of the unions were invited by a voluntary committee of master builders. The unions will be represented by Charles J. Lammert, president of the Building Trades' Council; W. T. Powell, business agent of the Steamfitters' Union, and Maurice J. Cassidy, secretary of the Building Trades' Council.

In a Sympathy Strike.

The strike was called in sympathy with the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union No. 22, which has demanded an eight-hour day and a wage scale of 35 cents an hour and time and one-half for overtime. The men have been receiving about 25 cents an hour and the length of their day has not been uniform.

Twenty-four representatives of unions in the Building Trades Council met and divided St. Louis into sections today, and have gone out to canvass the city for jobs where nonunion laborers are employed. They will order all union men on work where nonunion labor is found to quit. A committee today will also visit the plant of the Mississippi Valley Iron Co., on request of Edward F. Gofra. Gofra is said to be employing some nonunion men in construction work, and he is desirous of having the situation adjusted, the unionists say.

Scott R. McCoy, business agent of the Hod Carriers' and Building Laborers' Union, said today that about 5000 men were out. He said 2000 more would be called off by the committee appointed to examining the credentials of laborers now working.

F. G. Boyd, secretary of the Master Builders' Association, said he did not believe as many men were on strike as the unions claimed, but the number would be definitely known after the master builders had met during the afternoon. He said there was no disposition on the part of the builders to recognize common laborers. He said the demands of the laborers mean a raise in pay from $2.25 to $2.87½ a day and that builders could not afford it in a declining market. He said building operations in St. Louis had declined from $29,000,000 in 1906 to $11,450,000 in 1915. He said the builders feel that unskilled laborers are not a class that should be organized, and that the granting of their demand would mean an increase of 40 per cent in building cost.

AUSTRIA SAYS THAT SUBMARINE WARNED THE BARK IMPERATOR

Fired Through Rigging of Russian Vessel After Two Shots Had Been Ignored.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The Austrian Government, through American Ambassador Penfield at Vienna, has furnished the United States with its version of the attack by one of its submarines upon the Russian bark Imperator, from which two Americans, one of them wounded, were rescued.

The Imperator, bound from Gulfport, Miss., to Marseilles, France, encountered the submarine April 11 off the Columbiade Islands. Dispatches to the State Department said no warning was given the vessel and that three shots were fired, one taking effect. The vessel was reported to have been set afire by the submarine.

The Austrian version of the attack is that the submarine fired two warning shots at the Imperator, which failed to heed. A third shot, it is declared, went through the rigging. Then the members of the bark's crew put away in a boat and approached the submarine. A wounded man in the boat was taken aboard the submarine and given medical treatment. Later, the Austrian account says, the submarine took the boat in tow and abandoned it only when near a steamer.

Yore was a son of Capt. "Pat" Yore, founder of the Anchor Line Steamboat Co. He retired several years ago to devote his time to the management of property left him by his father. He is survived by six children, Byrd Anne, Barbara E., J. H. and Norris W. Yore, all of St. Louis; F. P. Yore of Chicago and Clement Yore, Estes Park, Colo.

Randolph P. Compton Protests Against Size of Fine—Should be $300, Says Judge.

Randolph P. Compton, 24 years old, son of William R. Compton of 13 Kingsbury place, president of the William R. Compton Bond & Mortgage Co., was fined $45 this morning in police court by Judge Hogan for speeding yesterday afternoon on Lindell boulevard between Bellaville avenue and Skinker road. The policeman who arrested him intimated that Compton was driving 45 miles an hour, and was chased all the way to the Clayton Courthouse before he was caught.

Compton testified his speedometer registered only 30 miles and explained the long chase by saying he didn't know an officer was following him. He protested against the high fine and was told by the Judge that it ought to have been $300.

It is unusual for first offenders, as was Compton, to be fined more than $5. Judge Hogan said the excessive speed in this case merited a greater fine. Compton is employed by his father's firm.

A tragic outbreak of his case was the killing of Allen Nixon, member of the State Legislature, whom "K.I." McLaughlin, brother of the condemned man, accused of "framing up" Neal McLaughlin, "K.I." McLaughlin was arrested charged with killing Nixon and was released on bond when the grand jury failed to indict him.

KILLED HUSBAND, SHE SAYS, WHEN HE ATTACKED HER

INVALID WOMAN DECLARES MAN TRIED TO STAB HER WITH BUTCHER KNIFE.

HAD BEEN TO LID CLUB

Mrs. Ida Keller Became Step-mother to Keller's Five Children When but 17.

Mrs. Ida Keller, 28 years old and an invalid, wept in the observation ward at the city hospital today as she told reporters how she shot and killed her husband, August Herman Keller, 50 years old, at their home, 623 Allen avenue, yesterday afternoon. They were married when she was 17 and he was 39, and she became stepmother to his five daughters, all of whom have since left home.

Mrs. Keller said she had been an invalid since last October, when an operation left her so weakened that since then she had been bedridden the greater part of the time.

Yesterday morning, she said, her husband went out, leaving her in bed, where she had been since Thursday.

Wife Upbraided Husband.

Keller returned about 3 p. m., accompanied by James B. La Fleur of 235 Locust street. According to Mrs. Keller, he told her they had been drinking at a club at Broadway and Geyer avenue. La Fleur departed from the Keller home when Mrs. Keller began to upbraide her husband for drinking and leaving her at home ill.

"For the first time since Thursday I had been sitting up a little while," said Mrs. Keller. "My nephew, August Rupert of Little Rock and his wife, Gladys, who have been staying with me about a month, were in the kitchen.

"My husband followed me into the kitchen when I went there to fill a hot water bag. He picked up a butcher knife and tried to stab me, but the knife struck the metal top of the water bag and the blade was broken off.

Hit Her on the Head.

"Then he picked up a tray and struck me on the head and said he would kill me. I ran into the parlor. He followed me and was advancing on me. There was a revolver on the floor under the bed. We kept it for bugbears."

"I picked up the revolver and fired. My nephew and his wife saw me do it, but they seemed to frightened to interfere. My husband fell. I don't know how many times I fired."

Mrs. Keller was arrested at her home shortly after the shooting. Her hysterical condition made it necessary to take her to the hospital a prisoner. Keller was shot twice in the head. He was employed as a laborer by the Pauli Jail Building Co.

PHILIPPINE COMMISSIONER HAS NO HOPE FOR FREEDOM SOON

Tells President He Trusts House Will Pass Independence Bill Without Fixing Date.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Manuel Quezon, a Philippine Commissioner, who has been urging Philippine independence, told President Wilson today that he and his followers had abandoned the idea of freedom in the near future, and hoped Congress would pass the House bill giving a greater share of self-government to the islands, but setting no date for independence.

Quezon urged the President to support the House bill and not insist upon the Clarke amendment, approved by the Senate, which would give independence by 1930. T. R. Yangco, president of the Philippine Chamber of Commerce, saw the President with Quezon. The whole question was discussed at length and the President promised to consult with Senator Clarke joined with Senator Hitchcock today in asking the Senate to accept the House amendment to the bill, which makes no references to a time for withdrawal of the United States from the island.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, May 8.—Hisses greeted mention of the President of the United States at the "Memorial to the Lusitania" meeting in Tremont Temple yesterday afternoon. Hisses mingled with laughter directed at the Mayor of New York City, for not allowing a similar meeting in that city, as they also greeted reference to notes of the American State Department as "bullet doux." And cheer upon cheer from the audience of 2000 greeted the demand that President Wilson break relations with Germany, the cry that the grave of the Lusitania shall also be the grave of the Hohenzollerns, and the demand for the vindication of "the outraged honor of this country—come what may."

It was a meeting in memory of those who went down with the Lusitania, under the auspices of the Citizens' League for America and the Allies. Women members of this organization sat on the platform gowned in black and throughout the audience were many women wearing mourning. The speakers dwelt more upon Germany than upon the Lusitania victims; and the more caustic their comments the louder they were cheered.

About 1000 Majority," Prof. Thayer Called Out.

The Plattsburgh who failed to find company in the pro-allied meeting decided to give his name to the newspaper meeting of April. Thus more American books history and literature. Among the better known of his works are "Best Elizabethan Plays," "The Dawn of Italian Independence," "Thronemakers," "A Short History of Venice," and "Life and Times of Cavour."

He was a delegate to the International Historian's Congress at Rome in 1902. He was made a Knight of the Order of Crown of Italy in 1902.

The telegram from the American Rights Committee of New York that evoked hisses was:

"The American Rights Committee of New York has abandoned its memorial because it was under a moral obligation to comply with a most unfortunate request. It now sends its hearty congratulations to the Citizens' League for America and the Allies, and rejoices that just as there is still a small corner of Belgium still its own, s. there is at least one corner of this country in which Americans can talk American thoughts out loud."

The audience was first roused to cheers, hisses and laughter by James M. Beck, a New York lawyer, for three years Assistant Attorney-General under Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt.

"The crowd here realized that the Lusitania was not yet been disengaged on land, but it was realized in fact that the watery grave of the Lusitania was also the last resting place of the Hohenzollern dynasty," was his opening sentence, and the great hall seemed to shake with cheers.

"We have had a year of infamy which today is just ended," he continued. "It is a significant and portentous fact that one group of the great Powers of the world views us with hatred, while the other group, however, unwilling to proclaim publicly their real attitude, regards our course in the greatest moral crisis of civilization with disappointment, disillusion and at times contempt."

"Explains His Protest.

None stood, he waited a moment and then went on: "I wanted to see how many here had been up there. I went to Plattsburgh myself. But I vote no because Germany has acceded to our request."

He sat amid a chorus, loud and persistent, of "O's" and "No's."

"The resolution has been carried by a large body of men, and if there be a feeling in getting recruits," Spencer said, "because the spirit of patriotism has not been aroused sufficiently to make men willing to enlist for three years, with the possibility of having to perform military duty. Now, if we can give a large body of men the spirit of patriotic service, we can at the same time show them some of the fascination of military drill. I believe many will be willing to enter the national guard. This plan has worked very successfully, I am told, in Cleveland."

GILMORE TO ASK FOR HIS RELEASE ON ARSON CHARGE

would be ready to meet that issue, and he asked for a mistrial, which was granted by the Judge.

Garesche said that P. H. Cullen, another of the lawyers for the defense, was in Jefferson City and would file a motion with the Supreme Court today for a writ of habeas corpus for Gilmore's release. If such a writ is granted, it is likely that Bersch and Imel would go through a similar proceeding.

Gilmore was taken to the Sheriff's office in the Municipal Courts Building and remained there in custody of a deputy. If no action should be taken by the Supreme Court today, he would have to give a new bond or go to jail tonight.

EFFORTS TO SAVE AMERICAN

Texas Will Try to Have God-Son Released by British at Singapore.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 8.—Efforts were begun today by Col. George W. Brackenridge, wealthy banker of this city, to obtain the release of J. B. Starr Hunt, who is reported held at Singapore by British authorities on a charge of promoting rebellion against India. Hunt, who is 26 years old, is a God-son of Col. Brackenridge and was born in San Antonio.

Until news came today of his reported detention in Singapore, Hunt was thought to be attending college. Advances to Col. Brackenridge said Hunt shipped as purser on the steamer Maverick, trading between San Francisco and the Orient and which is reported to have been in trouble with British authorities on allegations of blockade running. Hunt's father is a prominent attorney of Mexico City.

GASOLINE BURNS PROVE FATAL

Farmer Tried to Fill Tank While Engine Was Running.

Peter Schranz, 43 years old, a wealthy farmer of Centerville, Ill., died last night at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, of burns received in an explosion of gasoline on his farm last Thursday.

Schranz attempted to fill the tank of a gasoline engine while the engine was running. He had left open a valve that caused the fluid to ignite. He was burned on the face, neck, arms and body. He is survived by a wife and two children.

At that time, the lawyers for the defense insisted that the trial should go on, and said that if a mistrial were declared they would consider that their clients had been acquitted. They said the defendants had once been "placed in jeopardy," within the meaning of the law, and could not lawfully be tried again. Circuit Attorney Harvey said he and five children.

CLEANUPS INVADE CITY FROM WEST, SWEEP EASTWARD

Gen. Talbert Directs Advance of 23 Columns, Deploying in Three Divisions.

AIDED BY INHABITANTS

Rubbish Hillocks Taken in Rapid Succession—Euclid Avenue First Day's Objective.

The clean-ups are here. They began their invasion this morning, crossing the border at the western city limits in the early hours and sweeping eastward, attacking rubbish wherever it was found and hauling it away to the dumps.

The invaders moved forward in three divisions, according to the plan that had been mapped out by Gen. Talbert and his staff officers. The three divisions, each under the command of a divisional commander, were made up of 23 columns, to each of which a district had been assigned. The columns advanced simultaneously. Each consisted of four or five wagons, animals to pull them, men to load them and an inspector to see that a good job was made of it.

Every Alley Raided.

More dirt was encountered than in last year's clean-up. The reason was that the coming of the clean-uppers had been more thoroughly announced than last year, and accordingly the co-operation of volunteers was more general. One hillock after another was taken and hauled away and when the cleaners had passed the alleys were as clean as a good housewife's kitchen floor.

Indications were that the advance would not be as rapid as last year, when the clean-up forces camped the first night at Taylor avenue. After looking over the field this morning, Gen. Talbert gave it as his judgment that the forces would have about all that they could do to subdue the dirt as far as Euclid avenue the first day.

Tomorrow the clean-up army will sweep over the section between Euclid avenue and Sarah street. The next day it probably will advance as far as Grand avenue. The evening of the fourth day likely will find the invaders near Jefferson avenue and another night at Eighteenth street.

Let no one, however, rely on this schedule. The work may be done quicker than indicate or it may take longer. The thing for everyone to do, says Gen. Talbert, is to get rubbish ready right now and put it out in the alleys, so that it will be there when the wagons come; for when they come they will pass by and will not return, and the rubbish pile which is not in the alley then will not be hauled away.

Reserve Equipment Brought Up. The regular force of Street Department wagons has been reinforced by 60 wagons. They are all working under the one general order to get the dirt and not come back without it. While it is expected that the campaign will be completed in a week, it may take two weeks. No matter how long it takes, it will be carried to successful conclusion. And the result will be that the city will be clean for the Democratic national convention. It is expected that a clean city will be found so much better than a dirty city that it will be kept clean all the time after that.

"St. Louis the beautiful—clean up, paint up and keep it up" is the battle cry of the cleaners. It is blazoned from every street car.

There are many ramifications of the clean up and paint up week, and the most serious one is the vacant lot problem. The Central Civic Committee of the Woman's Council has undertaken to solve this and has issued a call for recruits in forming neighborhood clubs of the boys and girls. Every resident of the city who makes application will be mustered in this endeavor.

Those who own vacant lots are requested to turn them over to Mrs. Gus V. R. Mechin, chairman of the Vacant Lot Gardens Committee, to be used for various forms of recreation fields for the children of St. Louis; those who do not own lots may make contributions to John G. Lonsdale, treasurer of the St. Louis Continuous Clean Up Committee, Bank of Commerce. It is going to take a lot of work and hard work, and funds will be necessary to carry out the work planned by the Vacant Lot Committee.

PLANS FOR G. O. P. CONVENTION

Men at Work Preparing the Chicago Coliseum.

CHICAGO, May 8.—Preparations for the opening of the Republican National Convention here on June 7 were started today when carpenters began to transform the Coliseum into a convention hall. William F. Stone of Baltimore, sergeant-at-arms of the convention, is in charge of the preparations.

According to present plans, the full national committee will meet June 2 to make up the temporary roll of the convention. So far only eight contests have been filed as against 235 filed four years ago, so that it is expected the hearing of claims on contests will be quickly disposed of.

RESISTANCE TO DISEASE

Dility is a loss of vitality, not affecting any one part of the body particularly but the system generally. It is dangerous because it reduces the body's resistance to disease.

When dility follows acute diseases, convalescence is slow and the strength does not return as it should. An attack of the grip often results in dility that persists for months. Everybody recognizes that the remedy for dility is to build up the blood because the blood is the ever-moving part of the body and an improvement in its condition is quickly felt throughout the system. The problem in every case is to find something that will enrich the blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills suit most people's need because they are non-alcoholic and they really build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. We Have Constructed the Roofs on Over 3000 Buildings in St. Louis and Its Immediate Vicinity

The great majority of these buildings are of the highest class, including office buildings, apartment buildings, public buildings, university and school buildings, etc. In many cases the materials used have been practically the best that money can buy. On buildings of this character architects of well-known standing have specified

Certain-teed

Construction Roofs

These high-grade roofs are in built-up form, consisting of two or more layers of CERTAIN-TEED Roofing carefully cemented together with our CERTAIN-TEED Asphalt Cement. Type A is guaranteed for 15 years, and Type B is guaranteed for 10 years. These guarantees are backed by the General Roofing Mfg. Company, whose mills are the largest of the kind in the world.

As manufacturers of our own materials, we know what goes into them, and are in a position to offer sound guarantees and live up to them.

CERTAIN-TEED Construction Roofs are superior to old-style tar-and-gravel roofs in many respects. As coal-tar is a by-product of gas works and coke ovens, it has a tendency to return to its natural form of gas, and it, therefore, dries out, becomes brittle, and finally disintegrates, thereby producing leaks which result in costly repair bills.

CONDUCTORS OPEN CONVENTION HERE TO LAST 3 WEEKS

Cost of Meeting Will Be at Least $125,000 and May Reach $150,000.

The thirty-fifth triennial session of the Grand Division, Order of Railway Conductors of America, opened in St. Louis today, with 641 delegates from outside St. Louis and 59 St. Louis delegates present. The meeting will continue three weeks. Concurrently the sixteenth triennial meeting of the Grand Division Ladies' Auxiliaries of the order will be held. Headquarters of the conductors are at the Marquette Hotel. The women have their headquarters at the Planters Hotel.

The officers of the conductors' order are: A. B. Garretson, president; L. E. Sheppard, senior vice president; C. M. Whitney, secretary and treasurer.

The forenoon was occupied with registration at the two hotels. The first session will be held this afternoon at Moolah Temple, where all the meetings will be held. The convention will be formally opened at 1 o'clock by President Garretson. Officers will make their reports, resolutions will be offered and amendments to the rules and by-laws proposed. This evening the delegates will spend at the Marquette getting acquainted.

There will be about 1000 delegates and it is expected that the total attendance will be between 4000 and 4500. The trial conventions are reunions as well as most of the delegates bring their families.

The cost of the convention will be at least $15,000 and may be as much as $25,000. Each delegate receives $7 a day and his mileage coming and going and the incidental expenses are large. The delegates pay their own hotel bills. A deposit of $125,000 has been made at a local bank by the order to be drawn on for expenses.

The conductors at their last convention, in Detroit in 1913, voted to hold all future conventions in St. Louis, on account of its central location and because of the inducements offered by the Conventions Bureau.

John N. Willys, head of Overland Plant, here

John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company, the second largest producing company of automobiles in the world, passed through St. Louis Saturday night in his private car, via the Wabash.

He was en route to factory headquarters at Toledo, where after a brief stop he will start on a tour of Overland factories, which are in Elmira, St. Paul, Elvira and Toronto, Canada. This trip finished, started last January and took him to Florida, Cuba and California.

His party included Mrs. Willys, her father, J. A. Van Wie; Miss Virginia Willys, 5½ years old, and her governess, a maid, a nurse and valet.

Willys was met at the station by E. F. Carney, president of the Wabash, of which he is a director; T. L. Hausman, president of the Overland Automobile Co., St. Louis, distributors, and J. F. Toole, district representative of the Overland factory.

Willys is a strong "preparedness" advocate and is a delegate from Ohio to the Republican national convention.

He stated that during January, February and March this year his company produced 47,43 cars and during the same period of 1915 it produced 17,357 cars. That gives a fair idea of the growth of the automobile business, said Willys, and with one exception the Willys-Overland company had produced three times as many cars as its nearest competitor.

PASTOR ATTACKS SALOONS IN SPEECH TO 300 BARTENDERS

Rev. E. T. Clark Says He Has Given Evidence of Law Violations to Authorities.

The Rev. Elmer T. Clark, addressing more than 300 bartenders yesterday afternoon at a meeting of their union held at 2304 Lucas avenue, told them he had furnished to the police, and to Excise Commissioner Rumsey, the evidence collected by himself, in an inquiry as to violations of the Sunday saloon closing law.

Rev. Clark was accompanied by his brother, the Rev. Dr. Charles N. Clark, both ministers of the Methodist Church, South. He appeared on invitation of the bartenders, and was treated, throughout, with the utmost respect. His utterances were received in silence, even when he declared that the antagonism between his business and the business in which his hearers were engaged, was an irreconcilable one. The warfare between the church and the saloon must continue, he said, until one of the two shall perish.

Nevertheless, he urged, while the saloon continues to exist by authority of law, it is the part of wisdom for the saloon to obey the law. Therefore, he said, the ministers, in working for law enforcement, are serving the best interest of the bartenders themselves.

He said that he and other investigators, in collecting evidence, had sought not so much to attack individual liquor dealers as to bring about general law enforcement. For that reason, he said, they had not at first given all the evidence in their possession to the authorities. But last week, he said, the Liquor Dealers' Benevolent Association issued circulars attacking him and his associates, and they then decided to turn over the matter to the police and the Excise Commissioner.

SOCIETY

THE engagement of Miss Isabelle Mersman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto L. Mersman of 71 Vandeventer place, to George A. Seavers Jr. of Chicago, was announced Saturday, is one of the most notable of the year, and will take the daughter of another prominent family away to live. The affair dates to the days when Miss Mersman was a schoolgirl and the Mersmans had a summer home at Oconomowoc, Wis., where the Seavers also had one. Last year, when Miss Mersman's cousin, Miss Mary Scudder, married Earl Hay Reynolds, Mr. Seavers was best man and Miss Mersman maid of honor.

Miss Mersman has spent but a short time here each season, when she always is a belle, as it has been the custom of her parents to depart shortly after Christmas every winter for a tour of several months away and to go to Narragansett each summer. This year the Mersmans went to Honolulu early in January and have just returned. She is the granddaughter of the late John A. Scudder.

The wedding will probably be in the summer.

Mrs. Willard Bartlett of 4257 Washington boulevard gave a tea this afternoon at the Country Club at 4 o'clock, in honor of her young cousins, Misses Eleanor and Anne Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leverett Chase, who will graduate in June from Mary Institute.

The guests were limited to the members of the senior class of "Mary," 42 in number.

The tea table was spread under the trees on the lawn and in every detail the class colors of purple and white were used. Purple and white iris decorated it.

Mrs. Chase received with the hostess, and Misses Eleanor Dozier and Endi Simpkins assisted and had charge of the putting contest for the amusement of the guests.

Mrs. Hermann Schaus and her children, Miss Emilie and Alfred T. Jones, and Master Herman Schaus will depart the last of this month for their summer home in Jamestown, R. I. Mrs. Schaus was formerly Miss Sophie Johnson and her place at Jamestown, in the J. B. Johnson cottage, one of the first of the St. Louis colony there.

Mrs. Clarence M. Nicholson of 127 North Union boulevard has sent out cards for an auction bridge party Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, in honor of Mrs. John L. Moore of Gray's Summit Mo.

Saturday afternoon Mrs. W. H. Scudder, 363 West Pine boulevard, gave a circus party to 163 children and 10 attendants of the two Methodist Orphans' Homes at 4355 Maryland avenue and at St. Louis and Bonhomme avenues, Clayton, Mo.

Mrs. Joseph Fuqua and Miss Fuqua, who went to Washington to spend Easter, have returned to New York, where Miss Fuqua is studying in the Modern Art School. Mrs. Fuqua and her daughter have been in New York since autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Jacobson of 433 Lindell boulevard have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marguerite Jacobson, to Harold Langfield Sour of Shreveport, La. Miss Jacobson is a graduate of Mary Institute and of the Beethoven Conservatory of Music.

Mrs. H. W. Harris and her daughter, Mrs. John J. Gerling of 4222 McTee avenue, have gone to Louisville, Ky., to visit relatives until July.

STEPHENS CONCERN GETS THE STATE PRINTING FOR 6 YEARS

No Contest and Contract Is Let at Same Price as the Old One.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 8.—The printing, stationery and paper contracts for the State's official business were awarded today without contest to the present contractors, only one bid having been submitted on each contract. The printing contract, which covers six years, was awarded to the Hugh Stephens Printing Co. of Jefferson City at the same rates as obtained in the expiring contract, though Stephens explained that the cost of labor had increased 30 per cent since the old contract was made.

The stationery contract was awarded to Paul Hunt, a Jefferson City stationer, and the paper contract to the Graham Paper Co. of St. Louis. Both the latter contracts are for periods of one year only and the bids were much higher than the old ones. The bidders explained, was due to war prices on paper and supplies.

MRS. ANNA TAYLOR FINDS TANLAC FULFILLS A HOPE SHE CLUNG TO FOR YEARS

"Stomach trouble undermined my system and I was in a complete run-down condition, but I am glad to say that I feel splendid today."

The above remark was made by Mrs. Anna Taylor of 2714 Franklin avenue, St. Louis. Mrs. Taylor was speaking of Tanlac, a new medicine, which had helped her to realize a hope she had cherished for many years.

"Yes, continued Mrs. Taylor, "I suffered with indigestion. I was bothered with a sour and gassy stomach, and a bloated feeling. I had no appetite and could not enjoy what I did eat. My sleep was never sound."

"I had tried several remedies without results worth mentioning until I tried Tanlac. But Tanlac seemed to be the exact thing my system needed, for though I have taken but one

Lo, the Poor Indians Are Now So High We Can't See 'Em With a Telescope

TONEY'S TWO-HIT GAME IS WASTED AGAINST L. AMES

Cincy Discard Pitches His Second Near-Perfect Game and Wins 1-0.

HERZOG'S GREAT MISTAKE

Indians Retained Leon Kalamity, Reds Would Now Be a Pennant Factor.

By W. J. O'Connor.

Leon Kalamity Ames, taken by and large, seems to be about the best pitcher on the Cardinal club. His work this season is impressive, but only the continuation of a campaign mapped out last fall, a campaign that kept the Cardinals from finishing last in the National League. He has participated in two full games so far and portions of two others.

GAMES. W. L., IP., HBD., RBO., ER.

4 2 1 25 18 4 1

Ames came to the Cardinals under peculiar circumstances. He was experiencing only indifferent success in Cincinnati, where he was "on him." His salary was proportionately large and the Reds were losing money. It was decreed that Ames should go.

No more clubs thought of services. Huggins was wild about assuming Ames' contract, but it so happened in the latter part of July that the Cardinal pitching staff looked like a German company after a whirl at Verdun.

Hugh Decided to Gamble.

So Huggins decided to gamble, but Hugh isn't a Pittsburgh Phil or a Lucky Baldwin by no manner or means. He always plays 'em tight, close to his belt. Said he to Herzog:

"I'll take Ames on a 30-day trial. If he takes me anything I'll slip you the water pipe."

Herzog couldn't now buy Ames back for five times the waiver price. If he could, it'd mean his start in the Red Sox to the National League permanent, for the addition of Ames would just about round out a pennant pitching staff for the Redlanders.

I took great delight in Ames yesterday until Herzog's ace, Fred Toney, the bulkiest pitcher in the National League, and the best, Toney's record set me back. I was advised to pull Alexander on his face, while after weighing the merits of the teams they represented, the scale is balanced in Toney's favor. He won in spite of the Reds. Alex won with the help of the Phils.

Toney Gave Two Hits.

Yesterday Toney held the Cards to two hits in seven innings. Those hits were bunched. Long scratched an inside single in the fourth and Toney then made his second hit of the game. His pitching high and fast, to Jack Miller. He might just as well have taken cyanide of potassium. A low, flat, death to Miller, his last. In a game so dear to the man who serves it up.

Miller doubled. Long scored and that was enough for Ames. He's the kind of a pitcher Fielder Jones had in mind when Fielder said: "Give me a run and a pitcher, and we'll be all right." The Browns haven't Ames. Jones could make good that slogan if Leon was operating at Spangler's Park. As it is, Fielder is having trouble coming through.

Miller will be in there for his regular turn from now on, and if Donk approaches anything like his true form the Cardinals will be something more than down-and-out. The league, however, shows considerable promise.

He's been a good boy, though, and is not opposed to seeing out Alexander on an angle.

Ames has been going good of late.

Watch for Henri.

Old Day isn't one bit more general than his belligerent predecessor, Bill Klem. During yesterday's game one of those solo was here, the kind who always are on YOUR side. Threatened to cut off the business by reviving a wild west by Betts while Miller was gathering to third. Her er claimed a blocked ball and wanted Miller to score. Old Day objected, but he decided to let the game go on. Then he turned to the Cardinal bunch, he said:

"It looks bad for Huggins, I judge, from Old Day's manner, but the Cardinal commander lives up to his name. He's a good man, but he's not as bad as he seems, although there's a story going the rounds which gives us an instant idea of his character."

The business manager of the Reds, during his stay in New York, thought it would be nice one day in New York to introduce Henri to the manager of the Cardinals. He did, however, get the business manager of the Reds, the hotel manager, to meet Mr. Jones, the hotel manager.

Henri, with his arms folded and said: "Well, what the hell is it?" There were no more introductions.

Today and tomorrow will be days of rest as Robinson Field. The Easterners end these parts on Wednesday and for two weeks the Cards will entertain the Oriental men of the world on their home ground. John Evers will have to do that and will be a perfect day for the bleachers.

The record of three defeats in five games with the Reds isn't so discouraging after all, for Cardinals' fans. Hug's men got away to a hard starting position in their first game, however, and began to rally beautifully, however, and began to two of the next three. Ames should have won the last game. He was knifed in the ninth.

Herzog's knifing save yesterday and Hornsby will continue at third for a spell, with Corban as short. This doesn't weaken the team.

It was a grand treat for 10,000 fans. And Gus Haasen was there with his assassins of death, who can never beat the snare drum better than Ames can beat the Reds. Some wallowings!

The Reds hurried away to Chicago, where they play a postponed game tomorrow. Then home for a series with Brooklyn.

CLEVELAND CLUB HAS TAKEN LAST SEVEN CONTESTS

Winning Streak Started April 30 Against Tigers Puts Indians in Front.

When the Cleveland club yesterday downed the White Sox for the fourth straight time, they announced their seventh consecutive victory and the American League record for the present campaign. No other club in the Johnson body has come even close to the mark set by this Speaker & Co.

NEW YORK, May 8.—One of the greatest of automobile races is promised when 25 cars, tuned to the highest pitch, will be sent away in the 150-mile struggle for the Metropolitan Trophy Cup at the Sheepshead Bay Speedway on Sunday afternoon. Among the drivers who will guide the speeding juggernauts in this man's world and try to win the Speedway track will be some of the most famous pilots in the world.

Foremost among them is Darlo Resta, the famous racing driver in the big race on the Pacific Coast last summer. Resta, with Mifflin Peacock, turned out 14 miles an hour in his trials spins on the Speedway track, tuning up for the contest, and he is determined to prove his family lost the Metropolitan Cup race last fall, when he was forced to quit with his crank shaft bearings burned out.

Rounds Should Fall.

With Resta driving at his greatest speed records should fall in the dust and heat of the strife. That he will be forced to the limit, however, is shown by the fact that the Club citizens, who though comparatively unknown to American race followers, has won many popular contests in the last while, driving around the track six miles at the rate of 109 miles an hour in one of his practice sprints last week.

Carl Weilman Holds Cobb Hitless, but Ty Manages to Beat the Browns, 2-1

It's the Other Way Around This Season: Detroit Is a Jinx to Brown Southpaw—Hartley's Bad Throw Helps Cobb Score Winning Run.

By John E. Wray,
Sporting Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

CARL WEILMAN'S justly celebrated Jinx booted one, in yesterday's game, which the Tigers won, 2-1, with 19,157 paid admissions looking on delightedly. Jinx was operating in his well-known midsummer form throughout the contest and had everybody on the Detroit team looking as happy as an engaged couple, with a chaperon standing around.

With one exception—that was First-base-man George Burns, Jinx overlooked him, probably because he didn't consider him of sufficient importance and right there, Zip! went the old ball game. It was in the first inning that the episode of Mr. Burns first began to attract attention. Fielder Jones had to argue Umpire Hildebrand blue in the field in order that Bob Groom might open the pitcher's box as per announcement. Jones had verbally specified Groom, but a protest was lifted and Fielder put up a wordy battle that would have exhausted Noah Webster, the bright lesson teacher of ancient Johnnies. So you know he put up a regular talk. But he lost his point. Ditto one ball game.

Burns' Hit Scores One.

All of which occupied 15 minutes of time and Jinx, who had warmed up like Walter Johnson, cooled out. The Detroit got to him when, with Bush down, Vitt cleanly singled. Cobb walked and the danger signal would have been hung out except for the fact that for Cobb to become dangerous he would have to run over Groom. He did not, however, do so. He popped out—the start of a long series of aerial twisters sent up by the Tigers—and it was up to the defense of Mr. Burns. While back was turned, Burns lifted a high pop back of shortstop, which found Shatto and Marsans flat-footed and unable to handle it. All three gathered around the spot where it punctured left field for safety, while one run scored, that is, left-handers can stop the downy ball as easily as a driver or a Sox. But at that, please note left-handers made four of the six safe-ties credited to the Browns.

The Browns left tonight for Olean, N. Y., where they play an exhibition game Monday, and then return Tuesday afternoon. Believe Bob Groom may open there.

Ward Miller agreed in a play that might have cost him a run. The right-hander hit with two down, Sisler was on third and Sisler on first. Sisler had second base covered, but the ball was off the glove. He was thrown out easily at the plate, while Pratt was at bat hoping to end out a clean-up. Ward Miller, however, had the day left scant hope for believing that he would have turned the trick.

Paid to the bone. It all depends when Walter Johnson is served up to Jones.

Owner Phil Ball was expected up to see Sunday's game, but failed to show. Fielder's brother was a guest at the Cadillac Sunday of the manager and Mrs. Jones.

It wasn't the Browns' day and the Tigers' day. The Tigers had to work hard to overcome the left-hand pitching spell placed on them by Weilman, the famous Giant Killer of other days.

It wasn't the Browns' day and the Tigers' day. The Tigers had to work hard to overcome the left-hand pitching spell placed on them by Weilman, the famous Giant Killer of other days.

The Tigers are away off their stride these days and have been saving their face by the way of the road. They are now in the lead in the pennant race, having taken the lead from the Browns by landing first place in the 100-yard, 220-yard and 440-yard events, and all the others.

EXECUTION OF DUBLIN REBELS DENOUNCED HERE

Friends of Irish Freedom Denounce British "Put to Death Prisoners of War."

A resolution, denouncing the British Government executing leaders in the Dublin revolt, was passed at a meeting of the Friends of the Irish Freedom, held last night in Hibernian Hall. The principal speakers were former Judge O'Neill Ryan, Charles J. Dolan, a former member of Parliament, Dr. R. Emmet Kane, Charles F. Krome and the Rev. Father M. D. Collins.

Dolan introduced the resolution condemning Great Britain, and declaring that the British "put to death prisoners of war, who had waged their fight in strict accordance with the rules of civilized warfare." These men, it was declared, had been "placed on the roll of martyred Irish patriots, and will be enshrined forever in the hearts of the men and women of the Irish race."

Ryan read an editorial from the St. Louis Republic, relating to the suppression of the revolt, and introduced a resolution condemning this editorial, which was adopted. He also denounced John Redmond, Irish parliamentary leader, accusing him of betraying the Irish cause.

Father Collins declared that a clique, headed by British sympathizers, in the East, is working for a union with Great Britain, the plan being, he said, to form a "reunited kingdom" out of England, Scotland, Wales, Canada, Australia and the United States. Krone said that, in the event of British success in the war, the United States would be "menaced through Canada." He suggested that it would be "better policy to build up another Power, Germany, if you wish, or France, that we may at least have an ally against her."

MINISTER'S WIFE ENDS HER LIFE BY SWALLOWING ACID

Mrs. Laura M. Sommer Finds Poison Husband Had Conceded From Her in Yard.

Mrs. Laura M. Sommer, 37 years old, of 318 St. Louis avenue, wife of the Rev. Dr. Martin Sommer, pastor of the Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, killed herself by swallowing carbolic acid Saturday night. The matter was reported to the police yesterday.

Mrs. Sommer, who had been ill, had frequently threatened to kill herself and was constantly watched by her maid, Miss Emma Pruehsner. Late Saturday, while the Rev. Sommer was working in the back yard, Miss Pruehsner brought out a bottle of carbolic acid which she said she had found in the house. The pastor put it under a flower pot.

Shortly afterward Mrs. Sommer came out and offered to help her husband. She remained only a short time and returned to the house and took the acid. The Rev. Mr. Sommer believes she must have been looking out of the window when he hid the acid.

Mrs. Sommer had two children, Rodger and Martin, 10 and 16 years old, respectively. The funeral will be tomorrow afternoon from the residence to Grace Church. Burial will be in the New Bethlehem Cemetery.

OFFICIAL DENIAL MADE OF USHER'S MAIL CHARGES

Postoffice Department Declares of W. U. Professor's 16 Accusations 11 Are False.

"CRITICISM IS VULGAR"

St. Louisan Said to Have Accused Government of Not Treating Railroads Fairly.

Otto Praeger, second assistant Postmaster-General, has written a letter to Dr. Frederic A. Hall, acting chancellor of Washington University, complaining of statements made in an article on railway rates, recently published under the name of Prof. Roland G. Usher of the university faculty.

The article, Praeger says in his letter, was syndicated by the National Editorial Association, a company which sells signed articles to newspapers, and it was printed in a number of papers. He says the article attacked the Postoffice Department's policy in its dealings with the railroads, and adds that it was of such a character that I feel no university in the country would countenance publication of the name of one of its educators as the author."

Calls It Cheap Criticism.
"To criticise any policy of the Government," Praeger writes, "is, of course, within Prof. Usher's right. However, in this case the criticism is cheap and vulgar, and is entirely based on misstatements of basic facts which, coming from a professor of history, are positively amazing. Upon a tissue of falsehoods, he predicates charges that the department is guilty of 'crooked work' and of practicing 'shifts and dishonest devices' to avoid paying the railroads fairly. It is clear that the author of the article made no effort whatever to ascertain the elemental facts of law and practice applied in fixing the compensation allowed to the railroads for carrying the mails, and hence lacks a sense of moral responsibility."

"The article by Mr. Usher is composed of 16 sentences, 11 of which are absolutely false. Some of them are so false that they cannot be ascribed to ignorance, in a man of Mr. Usher's position, but on the contrary bear every earmark of malice."

"The article opens with the astounding false statement that the Government's mail contract with the railroads is 'one of the worst scandals in the administrative history of the world' and 'presents literally no redeeming feature.' This statement is sufficiently refuted by the citation of the fact that the contractual arrangements between the railroads and the Government are made under the provisions of the law. These arrangements have been considered by the courts in many cases, and no scandal has been revealed."

Replies to Accusations.
Praeger then goes to cite, and to deny, 10 other statements in the Usher article. The charge that the authority of the Federal Government has been used "to compel the railroads to carry the mails practically for nothing" is refuted, he says, by a comparison of mail payment rates with express rates, and by the efforts of competing railroads to get mail contracts.

He denies that, as stated by Usher, the Government is planning to continue the past system, hoping for the convenience of the public "in the unparallel robbery." The fact is, he says, that the Postoffice Department is trying to get Congress to enact a new system with pay for service performed, while the roads are using their influence to continue the old system, based on average weights.

Other charges quoted from Usher's article and denied by Praeger are that the weighing is not honestly done; that the day with the least volume of mail is used as a basis, and that tons of second-class mail were withheld on such a day; that the day before the inauguration of the parcel post was used as a basis for a four-year contract; that the payments did not cover the cost of transporting the mails; and that the department is trying to cover up and reduce its large deficit at the expense of the roads.

DRIVER IS STRANGELY STABBED

Cut Five Times by Men Who Are Strangers to Him.

The police last night learned that Richard Gaffney, 21 years old, a driver for the National Biscuit Co., was at his home, 2720 University street, suffering from five stab wounds. His condition is serious.

Gaffney said that he was stabbed at 5 o'clock last Saturday night by one or five men whom he encountered on Glasgow avenue, between Palm street and Natural Bridge avenue. He said that he had never seen the men before. When he passed them, he said, one asked him what he was looking at and then stabbed him.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Don't Be Profane

The Catholic of St. Louis have a flourishing society called "The Holy Name Society." Its object is to check profane swearing and inculcate reverence for divine things. It is a noble organization and could well be commanded to all Protestants as worthy of imitation or reproduction in such form as would be suitable for their churches. Any man who lives up to the doctrines of the society will necessarily be a good citizen, the best man to his family, and will be the man of most assistance to his country in times of distress.

To millions of people the name of the Deity is sacred; the name of Jesus Christ is holy, and their church is a divine institution. Why should anyone who wants to be refined, to be a gentleman, or to be ordinarily decent, allow himself to acquire the rude habit of promiscuously misusing the name of the Deity or of things many of his fellowmen regard as sacred? A gentleman ought to show enough regard for the feelings of others to restrain himself from such a foolish and vulgar habit.

Our fathers, who founded this Government, laid down the principle that reverence for the Deity and religion are the very foundations of the social order. Profanity and filthy language have did anybody any good; the use of either is a bad example before the young, and we know of no one who will justify it. It is a vulgarity which ought to be dropped from any gentleman's repertoire.

The old Hebrew law forbidding the carelessness, idle or blasphemous use of the name of the Deity was founded upon a sound principle. Reverence for God and respect for our fellowmen are essential in preserving government and society.

Among some very sensible rules laid down by S. J. Bowser & Co., Inc., of Port Wayne, Ind., is one strictly prohibiting under pain of immediate dismissal the use of profane language by any of its employees. If all great corporations could be induced to adopt and enforce this wise rule a long step would have been taken toward the eradication of one of the most vicious habits to which the average American workman is addicted.

Circus Should Clean Up.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The persons in charge of the livestock of the circus, daily exercised their animals, by parading out Forest Park boulevard, on the north side, to Forest Park, and returning on the south drive of said boulevard, to Grand avenue, and then west, on the north side of said boulevard, to Vandeventer avenue, and returning, over said street, to the circus tents at Laclede Avenue.

Why should not our accredited officials compel such managers, when desiring to exhibit here, to follow up their daily parade, as well as exercising hours, with a debris wagon, to clean up, and thereby keep the streets or our city clean, and in a sanitary condition, as is done in other large cities?

A CITIZEN AND TAXPAYER.

The Milkman's Point of View.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In regard to milk delivery men disturbing people at night a reader is advocating rubber tires for vehicles. Now I heartily agree with him in thinking the noise should be abolished, but I do not agree as to the manner of overcoming the evil. Why should they put the company to the expense of fitting rubber-tired vehicles when the iron shoes on a horse would still make almost as much noise?

And then there is still the noise of the delivery man to contend with. Each delivery man has from 125 to 300 families to serve with milk before they have their breakfast. The law says he shall drive only on the right side of the street, consequently he often has a 40-foot street to cross; then, perhaps he has to go to the rear of the house and go up a flight of perhaps 20 steps. He cannot slip up easy; these steps have to be taken about two at a time going up and three at a time coming down, in order to make his rounds in time.

The easiest way to stop the noise at night is for the city to pass an ordinance prohibiting delivery vehicles being on the street until 6 o'clock in the morning; then the public could get their sleep and the delivery man could get his. But don't blame the delivery man, for aside from the dog, he is the most faithful animal you will find, through rain and snow, heat and cold, serving the public without a day's recreation, often for years at a time.

THE ANSWER TO OBREGON.

The Mexican raid on Glen Springs is the answer to Mexican demands for the withdrawal of the expeditionary American forces in Mexico. It ought to be the signal for vigorous co-operation of Carranza forces with our troops to destroy or disperse all lawless forces and restore complete order on the entire American border.

The raid should be a signal for Washington to organize sufficient forces to do the work of border policing thoroughly and to protect the troops now in Mexico and the border population in any event that may arise on account of Mexican lawlessness and violence or our police work.

This fresh raid is an indication of the nature of the task we have undertaken. It is a warning to the de facto Mexican Government of the work it must help to do and must eventually accomplish if friendly relations are to be maintained—if intervention is to be avoided.

The pledge of co-operation made by the chiefs of the de facto Government must be put into immediate effect. If Carranza's forces will not or cannot stop the slaughter of Americans and will not give effectual aid to American troops in the task we must do it ourselves. We must be prepared to do it efficiently—to compel peace and order at every point on the border and to take care of all obstacles that may arise in the doing of the work.

EUROPE'S BLINDED SOLDIERS.

Yesterday, the anniversary of the Lusitania disaster, was a reminder of the terrible amount of suffering that the war is causing—how it is maiming and blinding thousands of the most useful men of the belligerent nations. And appeals continue to come in, especially in behalf of the thousands of sightless soldiers of the British, French and Belgian armies, for whom a special Blind War Relief Fund has been started, with headquarters in New York.

Other appeals for these blinded soldiers have been met with the plea that our first duty is toward Missouri's blind. That is true. But in all such cases we cannot forget the scriptural injunction: "These things ought ye to have done, and not to have left the other undone;" Missouri rich enough to take care of her blind and also do something for the sightless of the greatest of all wars.

It is sufficient to appeal for all these unfortunate in the name of common humanity. But, the fund that is being raised in America for Europe's sightless soldiers will be used to teach them trades and make them producers. This means that we may reap some slight reward in trade from their products. Purely from a material point of view, it pays to help the helpless back into the ranks of the useful.

Contributions to the Blind War Relief Fund may be sent to the American Trust Co. of New York, the president of which is subtreasurer for the fund.

REDUCING US TO VASSALAGE.

If Mr. Wilson accepts the German assurances, says the esteemed New York Tribune, "he will make this country a German vassal."

Having been reduced to the humiliating state of vassalage in which we force Germany to give new pledges as to the conduct of warfare at sea, we might by accepting them be reduced to the still more abject and helpless vassalage of forcing Germany to observe the pledges.

To the Tribune, as the Colonel's principal organ, it would be very distasteful to see a successful adjustment made by Mr. Wilson and still more distasteful to acknowledge that it is successful.

MAJ. MCBRIDE, "DOUBLE TRAITOR."

Maj. John McBride, prisoner of State under a charge of treason in Holloway Jail, was an attraction not to be disregarded in London during the summer of Edward VII's coronation. Treason, you know, seemed so very archaic an offense to colonial and up country visitors, and a sentence of death, though the conventional accompaniment of treason, added thrill.

Besides glimpses caught of the Major, the only high-treason prisoner of more than a generation, indicated that he might be a rather interesting fellow. He had fought with the Boers, presumed on immunity after visiting England and had been seized for having opposed the King with arms, though born in Ireland.

He was pardoned after a while, but essayed treason again in Dublin the other day, and this time was shot. Up to date, leaders who merely fought in Dublin, no matter how actively, have been spared execution, while those who not only fought but signed the manifesto proclaiming the rebels have been systematically put to death.

From which it might be deduced that proclaiming a republic is regarded as an especially serious offense in England, more serious, in fact, than rebelling, unless, as in McBride's case, one has been foolish enough to incur the equivalent guilt of rebelling twice.

SUFFRAGE AND 10-CENT HATS.

Illinois suffragists are quarreling over a question that seems to us well worth quarreling over—the question of whether to wear 10-cent or $10 hats in the great suffrage parade next month.

If it is a question of endearing themselves and rendering their persons attractive to the male contingent which confers political rights by legislation, the $10 hat would seem to be preferable. On the other hand, it is to be borne in mind that most millinery bills are paid out of men's pockets; even suffragettes' hats, like their votes, are conferred by mere man, generally speaking, and the idea of a 10-cent hat appeals tremendously to the economical mind. Most men are economically-minded in respect of millinery.

We leave the ultimate solution of the vital matter to the ladies themselves, with the recommendation that a 10-cent hat, which could be tastily fixed up to look like $10, would land everybody and insure the vote everywhere.

without recourse to deal with them. In the matter of admissions to citizenship, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Too much emphasis cannot be laid on the proposition "America First"—and it should be amended to read, "America First, Last, and All the Time."

GERMAN ACTION WILL DECIDE.

President Wilson could not do less, despite the unsatisfactory tone and contents of the German note, than accept the German compliance with the essential point of his demand for the abandonment of illegal methods of submarine warfare.

On the other hand, he cannot do less than repudiate any suggestion of a bargain on our part to serve as Germany's agent in dealing with Great Britain, in return for Germany's observance of our rights and of international law. The German case stands by itself apart from any other case. That issue was properly and finally settled in the beginning of the controversy.

Accepting Germany's fresh instructions, without regard to any conditions, as compliance with our rightful demands the outcome depends upon German action. If the new conditions of warfare are observed there will be no further trouble. If they are violated, continued diplomatic relations will be impossible. Germany must understand that.

The Accursed Bell of Vera Cruz

(Troubled Mexico's story-tellers love the story of the accursed bell and tell it in many versions and with innumerable additions and fanciful changes. It is one of their stories that is derived from Spanish sources and some of its forms have a distinct Moorish atmosphere.)

SOMEWHERE in Vera Cruz, or near it, there is a mass of old iron that it will be well to leave untouched if anybody should be so unfortunate as to find it. It has made trouble for Spanish authorities and the Church, and the last people to have unprofitable dealings with it were the French soldiers when they occupied Mexico.

They tried to cast the piece of iron into a cannon, and they did not like the result. Indeed, brave soldiers though they were, they liked the result so little that they made haste to get rid of it. This is why nobody knows today where it is.

The story of this iron goes back to old Spain in the days of chivalry. One day in that period a band of outlaws and robbers sacked a castle near Madrid. As they were feasting in its great vaulted banquet hall at dusk, a suit of armor that had been hanging on the wall suddenly got down and stalked into their circle, empty as its tongue.

They tried to cast the piece of iron into a cannon, and they did not like the result. Indeed, brave soldiers though they were, they liked the result so little that they made haste to get rid of it. This is why nobody knows today where it is.

The maligned bell was carried to the coast amid the curses of the people, and when the great silver flotsam landed on the Spanish Main that year, one of the galleons took the bell and carried it to Vera Cruz, where it lay for many years, feared and loathed by all.

Again years passed, and again men sought the tale. After a century, a new Viceroy asked why so beautiful a bell was not used, and directed that it be set in the clock-tower of the palace. As it had no tongue, the workmen, luckily for the peace of Vera Cruz, put it solidly into place and adjusted the hammer that struck the bell from the inside. Thus hallowed, bell made from perfectly honest Mexican metal, had no curse on it and as a natural consequence the bell remained perfectly silent and never alarmed Vera Cruz by striking anything but the hours.

It would, no doubt, be there yet, had the French soldiers not arrived. They took it down and melted it, intending to cast it into a cannon.

Then the curse made itself manifest again, for the last time so far as anybody knows. The iron refused to run. It "turned sour" as is testified by various chroniclers who saw it. And it chilled suddenly into a monstrous shape that was so assuredly not of this earth that even the fearless soldiers of Napoleon were frightened. Hurriedly they took the accursed thing away and cast it out, beyond the city.

There it lies to this day and every good man must pray that it never shall be found again.

This tale has served as foundation for prose and verse stories by such authors as Don Louis Gonzales Obregon, Juan de Dios Peza and Angel R. de Arellano.

The Accursed Armor Is Made Into a Cross and a Bell.

THERE they put him into a strong cell high up in a tall tower. Unfortunately he released him from the ropes before they locked him up. That was the last that any human eye ever saw of Don Gil de Marquand. When the jailers entered his cell next morning, they found the empty armor sitting calmly on the bench, with its arms folded.

Marid's most learned men were called together hastily and they fell on a clever strategem for outwitting the devil. Under their orders the armor was seized by bold workmen and carried to a smelting furnace.

A wild laugh of diabolical mockery came from the accursed thing as it was tossed in. The hotter it grew, the more did the laughs increase, until finally, when the mass was red and fluid, the jeering and merriment were so clamorous that all Marid resounded with it.

The learned men, however, smiled grimly. They were preparing a titbit for the devil that was to make laughter choke in his demoniac gullet.

As soon as the armor was fully melted, they gave the word. The workmen poured the metal into a mold that stood ready, and instantly the laughter ceased, to be replaced by bitter cries of remonstrance, rage and menaces.

Then came wimpers for mercy; and next moment, at the metal chisel, a scream of intolerable agony. That was the last sound from the metal chisel—for the wise men had cast it into a cross. The curse had been banished.

For many a generation the cross did faithful service at a wayside shrine, until its story was forgotten. A new generation wanted a bell for a convent in Madrid, and the bell founders took down the cross and melted it into a beautiful bell. On the very first night after it was hung Madrid was startled from sleep by such a din from the belfry that everybody rushed out, thinking the authorities were ringing alarm to rouse the citizens.

They found the belfry door locked. The priests brought the key and opened it boldly. Nobody was there; but the

The Passing of the "Hipless" Styles

Satisfied That Fulness and Distension Has Come to Stay, Women Now Are Most Concerned in How to Attain Them

AFTER giving the best years of their lives to subjugating into seeming oblivion their hips, women are now brought to the attaining of the opposite extreme by Dame Fashion's commanding hand. A little bunching of drapery here and there we have been used to and did not mind, but hoops and the stiffness of crinolines we are at a loss to know how to manage gracefully. However, we are bound to thank that, at the hips would make walking difficult and ungainly, modesty impossible and the silhouette extremely ugly.

Having satisfied ourselves that fulness and distension we must have at the hips, we are now mostly concerned over the way of attaining it. There is the puffing of the fabric into panniers, the plaiting of it in deep cartridge folds around the belt, the ruffled and plaited frills around the hips, and other odd and individual ways, usually aided with a red attached underneath at the hip line. Afternoon dresses, however, when of crepe silk, have not yet considered it obligatory to make use of the red, and even chiffon or georgette crepe frocks when for afternoon wear have preferred to depend on horsehair braid to make their fullness stand out. A band of it gathered in with the skirt fabric at the waistline and another band of it attached at the hip lines is the usual manner of manipulation. Surely the women with large waistlines have cause for modest gratification, as these styles by way of comparison give the waistline a trim effect.

THE frock depicted shows an attractive combination of lace flouncing, satin chiffon and taffeta. Yellow satin is draped about the figure for the bodice which points over a plaited front panel of yellow chiffon. Around the hips a full ruffle of satin could not possibly achieve the crisp piety of flare were it not for its taffeta lining. Of either dull blue or pansy color, it is revealed in and out around the back and sides and at the front the cascading of the ruffle gives a generous opportunity for its delightful color contrast. Two rows of white ribbon are used to match the ruffles elaborate the straight fullness of cream lace and could be made at the same time to conceal a piecing of flouncing and net which might be combined for the skirt length. A four-inch ruffle of the lace trims the top of the bodice, but refuses to continue over the shoulders, so that a strap of ribbon offers its services to one shoulder, and a garland of silk and velvet variegated panies to the other. A tiny cluster of flowers with ribbon ends dropping from them relieves the plain front of the bodice while adding a charming touch of color.

Mr. Coon and Mr. Possum

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

Part II.

MR. POSSUM was too sick from the horrid medicine to care about eating.

"What he needs most," said Dr. Coon later on, "is a fat duck or hen, and I think two chickens and some eggs would be the very best thing he could eat. But you must have green things, also, and I wish you could find something sweet as well. You might get a silver spoon from Mr. Man's house while you are about it, too. Something bright and shiny is better to use for his medicine."

Mr. Fox said he would get the chickens and as much more as he could, and Mr. Squirrel said he would do what he could.

Jack Rabbit was sure he could get some green stuff, and perhaps something sweet, but he did not know about the silver spoon.

But Mr. Coon was too quick for them. He knew it was all up when he saw Mr. Fox's nose come in the door. He jumped for the window and went right through it and off went bounding through the woods and away.

Mr. Possum, though, when he saw he was caught, thought only of his one great trick. He jumped into bed and played dead. Possum.

Mr. Fox and Jack Rabbit found him, and Mr. Fox said, "Well, I'll take him by his hind feet. Jack Rabbit, and I will take his head."

Mr. Possum had not the least idea what they were going to do, but he didn't care much; he had been through so much.

"Throw him in," said Mr. Fox, when he and Jack Rabbit came to the river near the house; "we will soon find out whether he is dead or not."

But Mr. Possum was far from dead, as he soon showed them, for out he jumped on the opposite side of the river and ran, and neither Mr. Fox, Jack Rabbit nor Mr. Squirrel ever again saw that Mr. Possum or that particular Mr. Coon again.

(Copyright by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Coon was, for he was all through playing doctor now.

There sat Mr. Coon in Mr. Possum's hair by the table eating all the things that his neighbors had brought to him. Now, it happened that Mr. Fox had not gone home; he stopped and hid around the corner of the house, for he thought Dr. Coon looked very pleased indeed.

"Wait and see what Dr. Coon does with the things we brought," he said to Jack Rabbit; "we will peek in the window for a few minutes."

When Mr. Squirrel came along they stopped him and they all hid.

"Now is the time," said Mr. Fox, when Mr. Coon and Mr. Possum began to quarrel. "Let us break in and give them both a good beating."

Pop (smoothing down): Oh, don't be a silly little goose. I tell you this old codger has been at me for a year.

Every time I meet him at that business man's Lunch place he tells me how he hates automobiles; what a lot of junk they are; how much finer a good horse is, etc. And yesterday he challenged me to race his trotter one mile with my car. Ten dollars to him first. It's so simple it's foolish.

(Hastily): What trouble? It's not only costly to animals, but it will be arrested for racing.

Pop (scoffingly): Say, don't make me laugh, will you? Arrested for racing a horse? Can you imagine the speed we'll have to put on to beat it? Most 10 miles an hour, I bet. And think of the gas that ten's going to buy.

(They start off with a great flourish. Arrived at the meeting place, they find the challenger on the spot. A slim, satiny horse harnessed to a light racing runabout is driven by an English print idea of a country squire in a fawn-colored driving coat.)

Ma (exclaiming): Oh, what a beautif-

aged grandmother!

So Weak She Could Hardly Stand—Made Strong by Vinol.

Right here in St. Louis we have seen such excellent results from Vinol that it is a pleasure to know it is doing so much good for old people in other parts of the country.

Woodbridge, N. J.—"My Grandmother was recovering from the grippe and was so weak she could hardly stand, and as she was house for my father and myself, she could not get around at all. She had taken cod liver oil and many other medicines, but nothing seemed to do her any good. At last we heard of Vinol and tried it, and Grandma commenced to feel better right away and got strong very soon, so she gets around as well as ever. We all praise Vinol for it is a splendid medicine." Myrtle H. Bunn.

The reason Vinol is so successful in restoring strength to the aged is because of the rare combination of tonic iron, the curative medicinal extractives of fresh cod's livers, beef peptone, and mild native wine. It supplies iron to the blood, quickens the appetite, aids digestion, promotes proper assimilation of food, and enriches the blood, and brings back the strength of renewed health.

Vinol is sold in St. Louis by the Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and by all other drug stores in St. Louis that display the Vinol Agency sign.—ADV.

Marketing in Siberia.

THE markets of Irkutsk, in Siberia, are an interesting sight, for the products offered for sale are in most cases frozen solid. Fish are piled up in stacks like so much cordwood, and meat likewise.

All kinds of fowl are similarly frozen and piled up. Some animals brought into the market who are propped up on their legs, and have the appearance of being actually alive, and as one goes through the markets one seems to be surrounded by living pigs, sheep, oxen and fowls standing up.

But stranger yet, even the liquids are frozen into a block in this way and with a string or a stick frozen into or projecting from it. This it is said, is for the convenience of the purchaser, who is thus enabled to carry his milk by the string or stick handle.

Toads live about 15 years on the average.

A Dandruff Cure.

HERE is a sulphur treatment very good for removing dandruff. To one ounce of sulphur, add a quart of soft water, and during the intervals of service, dip a saucer in the mixture repeated by.

After the sulphur has settled to the bottom of the receptacle, use the clear liquid. Saturate the head with it every morning and in a few weeks every trace of the dandruff will have disappeared, and the hair will become soft and glossy, and there will be no return of the old trouble.

Mails His First Letter.

THE other day George Terrell of Anderson County, Ky., walked into the postoffice at Sparrow and asked Postmaster Mitchell if he had such a thing as a 2-cent stamp, explaining that he wished to mail a letter and that he had been told that he would have to have a stamp.

He said he was 32 and that was the first stamp he had ever bought and the first letter he had ever mailed.

Astonishing Power of Iron to Give Strength to Broken Down, Nervous People

Physician Says Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate Folk 200 Per Cent in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances

In a recent discourse, Dr. E. Sauer, a well-known specialist, who has studied widely both in this country and Europe, said: "If you were to make an actual blood test on all people who are ill you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron and who are ill for no other reason than the lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied to their systems all kinds of symptoms disappear. Without iron the blood at once loses the power to change food into living tissue, and therefore nothing you eat does you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system like corn through a mill with the rollers so wide apart that nothing can work or far how you can walk without becoming tired. You take a five grain tablet of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks and you will notice that you feel better and see for yourself how much you have gained. You have seen dozens of nervous downtown people sitting at the time double, and even triple a their time in the doctor's office and get rid of their symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles from ten to four times the proper form, and this, after they had some cases of doctoring for bronchitis with no results whatever. Now talk as you please about all the wonders of modern medicine, but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks and flesh on your bones. It is also a great nerve and stomach strengthener, and the best medicine for the heart. The only trouble was that the old forms of iron were often ruined people's teeth, upset their stomachs and were not as easily digested as the new forms, which frequently did more harm than good. But with the discovery of the newer forms of iron, all the old difficulties overcome. Nuxated iron, for example, is pleasant to take and immediately begins to work. And it need not immediately begin to work. The manufacturers of Nuxated iron have such unbounded confidence in its potency that they authorize the giving of a sample to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under their roof. They have no further guarantee than that they will refund your money in case in which Nuxated iron does not work. The manufacturer gives a ten days' trial. The manufacturer of Nuxated iron is Judson & Dolm Drug Co., which owns the Remley-Peterson-Peterson Drug Co. and all other drugists—ADV.

GERARD REPLIES PUBLICLY TO HIS CRITICS IN BERLIN

Denies He Wants War or Is German Foe; Story Said Wife's Dog Wore Kaiser's Medal.

DEFENDED BY OFFICIALS

Paper to Be Called to Account for Intimation That He Betrayed Sir Roger Casement.

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND.

A St. Louis Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World. (Copyright, 1916, by Press Pub. Co.)

BERLIN, May 7.—Aroused by irresponsible gossip that he was unfaithful to Germany and doing everything possible to bring on war with America, Ambassador Gerard has given an interview, in the National Zeitung, denouncing these reports.

The Government, it is understood, is planning to take energetic steps against the Continental Times, a paper published in English here, for publishing an article written by Edwin Emerson, a war correspondent, which Gerard construes as saying, almost in as many words, that the American Ambassador and an American correspondent had betrayed Sir Roger Casement to the British.

There has been a suppressed and inviolate correspondence and idle reports on for some time, to which the year seems in German-American relations appears to have rendered the Ambassador somewhat sensitive. In numerous instances the unfavorable gossip as to his attitude and the deliberate misconstruction of his remarks have originated with Americans. Acting upon instructions from Secretary Lansing, Gerard's efforts to take up the passports of Americans for one reason or another or refusal to extend passports has earned him no small amount of enmity from some Americans and German-Americans.

Some of the reports have been so utterly absurd and荒謬 that they are taken seriously. A report was spread, and even got as far as the Crown Princess, that Mr. Gerard had taken the decoration conferred upon her by the Emperor, in recognition of her highly appreciated charitable work, placed it on the neck of her dog, and paraded the dog on Unter den Linden.

The fact that neither Mrs. Gerard nor the Ambassador has a dog was not taken into consideration by the person who started this.

Malicious tongues have said that Mr. Gerard was unfriendly to Germany, that he was misinforming President Wilson and using all his influence to bring on war. Late, also, the campaign has taken the form of private and circular letters, none of which, however, were of a nature on which the Government could take a stand, there being nothing criminal nor slanderous.

Stating that he did not know what impression Germany's answer had made in Washington, as he was not sufficiently advised of the views of President Wilson and Secretary Lansing to be able to draw conclusions, Ambassador Gerard said:

"However, I hope peace between Germany and America will be maintained. At the same time I would be pleased if you will state that in this crisis, as in the preceding ones, I have done my utmost to relieve and clear up the misunderstandings between the two countries.

Not an Enemy of Germany.
"At all times have I done everything in my power that a conflict between the Government to which I am accredited and the Government which I serve may be averted. I desire no war between Germany and America; I have never wanted such a war; I shall never desire it. I want to say that the accusations that I am an enemy of Germany are absolutely false.

"I have never done anything that could justify the reproach that I hated Germany or the German people. Publicly and privately it has been said of me in these last days that I am urging my Government to war, that no matter how much the German Government concedes to my Government, war is inevitable, because I desire it.

"It is said that I own an arms factory and therefore have an interest in the continuation of war. Someone even had the audacity to write to the Crown Princess that my wife had taken a decoration conferred on her by the Emperor, hung it on a dog's neck, and paraded the dog on Unter den Linden.

I am highly indignant over such lying reports. I want to state such a story is not calculated to make friends. Consider the damage of having been entirely proper and correct. In my capacity in Berlin, I feel these charges deeply, because I know that without having given even the shadow of a cause, the opinion that I am an enemy of the Germans prevails far and wide in Berlin.

Ambassador Gerard declared that the Imperial Government is well aware that he had done everything within the limits of his power for the maintenance of peace between the two countries.

"My political importance appears to be greatly overestimated," he said. "As a matter of fact, I am only the servant of my Government. I receive instructions, have to carry out those instructions and report on them, but I have no decisive role to play."

On the evening he delivered President Wilson's note, accompanied by the same American correspondent attacked in Emerson's article yesterday, Ambassador Gerard went to the office of an organization known as the League of Truth, numerous members of which are said to be Americans. A man named Marten, who contends he is an American, but is said to be a German, is the organizer. According to the Ambassador, he recently threatened to print in the league publication certain but unspecified things about Gerard.

Gerard, it appears, jocularly or in earnest, said he would "burn up the place" if Marten attacked him. Marten filed a complaint in court, charging the American Ambassador had threatened him with arson, and named the correspondent and another American as witnesses. Further to revenge himself on the Ambassador, Marten sent a copy of his complaint to many German papers and journals. Several papers published an end to it.

The climax came when Edwin Emerson, whose newspaper Ambassador Gerard had unsuccessfully attempted to take up on instruction from Secretary Lansing, had an article in the Continental Times which the Ambassador considered as being directed against him, and in which an American correspondent also figures.

Emerson, under the heading "Who Betrayed Casement," refers to Viscount Peel's statement that the British Government was tipped off by "influential people" and Lord Lansdowne's assertion that "the only specific warning came from an external source on the very day of the outbreak," and implies what Ambassador Gerard regards as pointing a finger at the embassy here and a prominent American correspondent.

Under-Secretary Zimmerman lunched with the Ambassador, expressed regret at the article and promised action against the paper. Dr. Zimmerman stated that such reports, gossip and innuendos were most regrettable, but that it was difficult for the Government to proceed because of lack of legal ground and that it was impossible to stop people talking.

THIS HUMBLE BOOKBINDERS APPRENTICE + became

the founder of modern electrical industry

A poor boy—a strange inspiration—one of the three greatest discoveries of modern times—and one of the world's most important industries is born! Could romance hold more?

MICHAEL FARADAY was the son of a poor blacksmith. At fourteen he is apprenticed to a bookbinder. At night he reads books. One day there comes into the little shop a dog-eared volume of a work of vast learning seldom thought of as an inspiration to youth—the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

It does not go out of the shop until this eager-minded apprentice has read the long articles on Electricity and Chemistry, and some others. It is enough. The die is cast. Michael Faraday will become a "natural philosopher," as he fondly used the term.

He became assistant to Sir Humphry Davy, then the most brilliant experimenter of his day. (It was Davy who, more than 100 years ago, dazzled the world with the first electric light. It shone only a short time and was very expensive. His source of electricity was a battery of a thousand cells or more, such as we use for door-bells and flash-lights.)

But it stirred the highly imaginative boy. What if an almost unlimited source of this "subtle fluid," which could work such wonders, might be found?

It was twenty years or more before Faraday found it; he did not live to see the fruition of his tremendous discovery.

You know what the discovery was—simply that by rapidly whirling a bar of soft iron in front of a magnet an electric current could be generated.

The results are the huge generators at Niagara, the monster turbine generators like that of the Waterside Station in New York City, requiring the power of 30,000 horses to move them—and electricity doing the heavy work of the world.

A New Popular Issue

In Faraday's time the Encyclopaedia Britannica was an expensive book. So is the large size "Cambridge University" issue of the new Eleventh Edition. It costs from $16.50 to $250 per set.

But the publishers have made for us a new and popular issue at an astonishing reduction in price, called the "Handy Volume" issue, now being offered on the easiest possible terms.

The entire set of 29 volumes is sent upon a first payment of ONE DOLLAR. After that easy monthly payments for a short time.

These 29 volumes are identically the same, page by page, as the 29 volumes of the "Cambridge University" issue, except that the page is smaller. Not a line has been omitted, not a single article abridged. For this the publishers give their unconditional guarantee.

It is the complete, new, copyrighted, unabridged Eleventh Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Ambassador Gerard declared that the Imperial Government is well aware that he had done everything within the limits of his power for the maintenance of peace between the two countries.

"My political importance appears to be greatly overestimated," he said. "As a matter of fact, I am only the servant of my Government. I receive instructions, have to carry out those instructions and report on them, but I have no decisive role to play."

On the evening he delivered President Wilson's note, accompanied by the same American correspondent attacked in Emerson's article yesterday, Ambassador Gerard went to the office of an organization known as the League of Truth, numerous members of which are said to be Americans. A man named Marten, who contends he is an American, but is said to be a German, is the organizer.

According to the Ambassador, he recently threatened to print in the league publication certain but unspecified things about Gerard.

Gerard, it appears, jocularly or in earnest, said he would "burn up the

The chance meeting with the volume of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, the turning point of Faraday's career, occurred more than a century ago. Do you imagine that such opportunities no longer exist—that genius can only get on with the aid of a college education?

Turn, then, to that American whose career has closely followed Faraday's—our own Edison. He, too, was a poor boy, had no college education. And he, too, became the "greatest experimental genius of his time."

And even this man "with a mind like an encyclopaedia" keeps the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA always at his elbow. So do many others who, without a college training, have risen from obscurity to the highest positions in American life—men like James J. Hill, Charles M. Schwab and scores of others.

And the Encyclopaedia Britannica in its newest form is far better calculated to be the inspiration of youth and genius than the edition current in Faraday's time. The new Eleventh Edition is as much more wonderful than the old edition as our day is more wonderful than Faraday's. Even more than in that day it sums up in compact space the highest knowledge and information which men of science possess.

And far more than in his day it is a practical work, made not for scholars and university professors alone—not just for "high-brows"—but for the busy men and women of today and for the eager mind of youth.

Its splendid articles, not only on electricity and chemistry, but upon every branch and division of science and knowledge, form the finest groundwork for a broader education that could be found.

A 130-page Book Free

The publishers of the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA have prepared a richly illustrated book of 130 pages to tell you all about this great work and the new "Handy Volume" issue, and its usefulness to you. It is full of interesting stories, clever diagrams, beautiful pictures—a book packed from cover to cover. Some of its contents include:

—100 interesting bits of knowledge revealing the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA from a hundred different points of view.

—A little history of the BRITANNICA from the days of King George III, with 70 portraits of the noted men who have made it the greatest work of its kind.

—Twenty pages of interesting dialogue telling of the unexpected interest of the BRITANNICA for women.

—A clever story about the way children get interested in it.
